THURSDAY, AUGUST 2, 1860.

AT GERMAN HALL.

F. Hassaureck, Esq., an eloquent citizen of Cincinnati, will address the Republicans of Chicago in the German language, at the GERMAN HALL, on Friday evening next. Mr. H. is a capital speaker and a thorough American, who understands the spirit and working of our institutions, and he will make a speech of great power.

Hon. Jos. Knox, Dr. Smith, and others, will address the meeting in English. Let there be a full turn out!

A CALL ON OLD ABE.

There is a general desire among the Republicans of this city to attend the Mass Meeting at Springfield, on Wednesday, Aug. 8th, and we have no doubt that many hundreds of them will avail themselves of the opportunity afforded by a special train and low fares on the Illinois Central, to make a call on the next President of the United States. The trip will be short and agreeable, and if present prospects are realized, those who go will attend the largest political convention ever held in the Northwest. In another column, the rates of fare, the places in which tickets may be bought, and other matters connected with the proposed gathering, are stated at length. Let us hope that Chicago will send one thousand, at least.

INDIANA.

A Breckinridge State Convention assembled at Indianapolis on Tuesday, in which a series of violent and bitter speeches were made by Senators Bright, Fitch and others, in denunciation of Mr. Douglas and his followers. The upshot of all was the introduction of a series of resolutions pledging the Convention to the support of a ticket formed in union with the very man upon whom the speakers had poured out the vials of their wrath. They were put to vote, and in spite of a large preponderance of "nays," the Chairman declared them adopted, and the meeting adjourned. The irrepressible conflict in Indiana has but just begun. The Republicans are laughing to see the fur fly.

THE MOBBING BUSINESS.

Closely following the villainous assault on the Rev. J. J. Ferree at Cairo last week, comes the news of two more attempts to suppress the freedom of speech in Southern Illinois. A German at Nashville, Washington county, a few days since, commenting on the kidnapping profession expressed the belief "that some black men were quite as honorable as some white men." He was immediately set upon by the Douglasites of Nashville, and was compelled to run for his life. He took shelter in a store belonging to a Democrat, whose son bolted the door to keep the mob out. The lynchers then threatened to break it down, and were proceeding to carry out their threat when the owner made his appearance with a revolver in his hand, declaring that he would shoot the first man who dared enter. The scoundrels thereupon made themselves scarce about those premises, and the German was allowed to depart out of the coasts of the Nashvillians.

A correspondent at Centralia informs us that about the same time a Republican speaker was mobbed at Fairfield, by the infuriated Douglasites of Wayne county, upon whom the principles of the Declaration of Independence and the doctrines of Washington, Jefferson and Madison have thus ame effect as a shower-bath on an animal in hydrophobia.

GREAT EXCURSION TRAIN TO THE HOME OF LINCOLN.

The Grand Rally at Springfield.

The liberal and unprecedented terms that have been made to secure a glorious delegation of the Republicans and Wide Awakes of Northern Illinois, to Springfield, on the occasion the grand rally on the 8th of August, are, we are glad to notice, spreading far and wide in the community, and will give for that excursion the largest turn-out that ever visited the capital from this section. The people will rush in by thousands to see the gallant Lincoln at his home.

The great train leaves Chicago on Tuesday evening, August 7th, at 8 o'clock, to reach Springfield on the following morning via the Illinois Central Railroad, the fare from Chicago, to go and return being THREE DOLLARS, or less than one-third the regular fare.

Arrangements have been made with the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy (from all stations east of Earl), the Chicago and Northwestern (at Janesville, Woodstock and Barrington), with the Chicago and Milwaukee (at Racine, Kenosha, and Waukegan), Galena & Chicago Union (all stations east of Freeport), and at all points on the DIXON Air Line, to carry passengers at half fare, to Chicago and return, to connect with the great excursion train from this place.

Cars will be reserved exclusively for ladies and gentlemen with ladies. All who go will be wise to carry their provisions needed by the way. At Springfield the latch strings will be left out for everybody.

The above fare of three dollars is for single tickets. Clubs or Wide Awake Associations of fifty will be carried at TWO DOLLARS AND FIFTY CENTS, the lowest excursion rate ever offered in this State.

From all over Northern Illinois the Wide-Awakes are turning out in full force, and will make a grand and imposing demonstration at Springfield on the evening of the 8th.

Tickets are for sale in Chicago at the following places:

Tremont House, Richmond House, Briggs House, Metropolitan Hotel, D. W. Corbin's cigar store, corner of Clark and Randolph sts., S. McCotter's grocery, 35 West Randolph st., and of Messrs. Goss & Hoag under the Foster House, North Clark st., and at the Ill. Central R. R. Ticket office.

Fizzle at Joliet.

The Douglasites put forth prodigious efforts to collect a vast crowd at Joliet yesterday.—All their big guns were advertised to harangue the great unwashed. Richardson, Allen, Gov. McCook, S. S. Hayes, E. Van Buren, Fisher and the Lord only knows who else. A special train was chartered to run from this city, at 50 cents for a round trip—drinks free.

Well exactly was drummed from centre to circumference, for materials to create a crowd. The Squatters of Grundy, Livingston, Kendall and Clark were invoked to turn out en masse. So confident were the managers of a grand success, that the lowest estimates of the crowd to be present was 20,000. But, alas for human calculations, especially Squatter calculations—the whole "vast assemblage" scarcely reached 2,000. One of our informants says there not 2,000 people present. Half the meeting was contributed by this city. Taking advantage of the low fare, ten or a dozen cars full went down to swell the meeting. The next largest delegation came from Pontiac, 100 strong. The others were feeble and scattering.

Allen recited most of his old speech—leaving out the milk story, and omitting to charge Yates with voting against the infamous and disgraceful Lincoln Black Law. He was too far North to make capital by telling it. But it is his trump card in Egypt.

McCook tried to play the part of Spalding's glue to make the feckless stick together. S. S. Hayes recited as much of spread eagle Myrick's Tremont House speech as he could recollect. What the others said, or who they were, is not worth mentioning. Only a few hundred listened to the harangues. Taken all together the performance was a bad failure.

Wait until the Republicans of Will country hold their first campaign meeting, and then will the squatters will be shown a thing or ing worth seeing.

☞ There are 88 voting tenants and farm laborers on the farm of David Stowe, in La Salle county; 64 are for Lincoln; the others are for Douglas and Breckinridge. Several of the "Democrats," not liking the Mormon attitude, have wisely joined the Republican party.

The "Mountain Come to the Mouse."

JOLIET, August 1, 1860.

Editors Press and Tribune:

The long-talked-of, long-expected, much promised, grand, overwhelming, tremendous demonstration of the united Democracy of Northern Illinois, which was to strengthen the arms of the Little Giant, and strike terror into the heart of Lincoln, and give a death-blow to the Republicans, is over. The people of this city supposed from the vast amount of advertising, drumming and puffing done by the Douglas leaders, they were to be overrun by the hosts of the unterrified which were coming. But lo! the "mountain labored and brought forth"—a very diminutive specimen of a mouse! Instead of the thousands, the number was not above 2,000 at the outside, and I heard it estimated lower than that. Take away those who came from your city, and the meeting did not number over 800. This I am prepared to substantiate by the evidence of many disinterested persons who were present. At no time did the crowd exceed 3,000, and within ten minutes from the time the meeting was organized, not more than 500 or 800 were on the ground. I feel curious to see what the Times and Herald will set the number at, as its editor, Mr. McComas was one of the speakers. Will he carry out his promise, and stick to the truth, no matter what the consequences?

The meeting was no more of a fizzle in point of numbers than in lack of enthusiasm. When the Chicago crowd first arrived, they were inclined to be jubilant, and have a good time. But when they saw the total failure to bring out the masses here, they dropped their feathers and gave themselves up to the care of our saloon keepers, who, no doubt, reaped an abundant harvest. In fact, one would be led to believe, from their actions and conversation, that they merely came here for a spree. Many of them were unwilling to have it known they were attending the meeting. This remark is especially true of the association styling themselves the "Douglas Invincibles."

The speaking was conducted by Jim. Allen, Gov. McComas, and Bernard Antzen, S. S. Hayes and Charles Cameron. Allen said his old piece, with a few abbreviations of the parts nearest approaching the truth; McComas talked about reconciliation and harmony among the Democracy, advising them all to come together for mutual protection, dropping all preference, and principle, and vote for Abe Lincoln. He no doubt convinced his audience before he had spoken many minutes, for all but about 300 went away, leaving him to talk to vacancy. Antzen spoke in German, and left a very poor impression upon his hearers, either as a politician or a gent'eman.

About 5 o'clock P. M. the crowd gathered about the depot, where they impatiently awaited the starting of the train. When it was ready they mounted it with alacrity, no doubt feeling glad to get away from the scene of their total failure, and the citizens of Joliet of a crowd which had become a nuisance, even though it remained but for a few hours.

ANOTHER ACCOUNT.

JOLIET, Aug. 1, 1860—P. M.

Editors Press and Tribune:

For weeks past tremendous efforts have been made by the Democracy here to get up a great and enthusiastic assemblage of the unterrified to listen to the speeches of Allen Antzen, McComas & Co. Hand bills have been profusely scattered, poles raised, banners painted, music engaged, and a good time generally promised.

Well, the day has arrived, and past. But the Democracy of Will County—oh, where are they? The procession numbered by actual count less than ten hundred persons, contained seven carriages, and including the Joliet Band, marshals, ward delegation, prominent citizens to side with the distinguished speakers, women and children did not contain three hundred residents of this county. There is not present a single delegation from any town in this vicinity.

Pontiac, for Livingston county, sends a Douglas company of sixty men, called Douglas Invincibles, making a fine appearance, but although intelligence of their coming had been rebeived the night previous, this morn not a squitterite was on hand to welcome them; in vain they looked for one of the faithful to direct their footsteps, only the mulatto runner for the National Hotel appeared in view. Should the Democracy be led away by a nigger? Never. They scorned his offer of good accommodations, and wound their way into town alone, though not without many remarks which I despise to put on means complimentary to this oasis in the desert of Republicanism.

We have been to some trouble to ascertain the exact number of persons from the different places represented, and give the result, from actual count:—Wilmington, with four other southern towns, 21; over the Out-off Railroad bringing passengers from the eastern part of the county, 3 speakers, 2 ladies and five others; from Chicago by special train, including women, children and Republicans, 500; from Plainfield and three other northern towns, 7; citizens of Joliet and vicinity, 500. What a Godsend was the delegation from Chicago!—but for that, there would not have been enough to render a vote of thanks to the speakers.

In point of numbers and enthusiasm, the gathering in every respect is a bad failure.

THE LATEST FROM SYRIA.

BEYROUT, Wednesday, July 11.

The attack of the Druses on the Christians at Damascus commenced on the evening of the 9th, when several men were killed and many women carried off for harems. The French, Russian and Greek Consuls took refuge in the house of Abd-el-Kader. The attitude of the Turkish authorities was indecisive, and rather injurious than useful to the Christians. Three thousand Turkish soldiers arrived to-day. The fears of the Christians are not realized, and the steamers Vesty and Norwick are expected with impatience.

Details to the 1st of July say it was then ascertained that the Druses had burnt and pillaged 151 villages since the 29th of May; while from 7,500 to 8,000 Christian inhabitants of Lebanon, many of whom were wealthy men, and all strangers to anything like poverty, are homeless beggars, depending on charity for daily bread. Over and above the number of Christians shot in actual warfare, it is believed seven or eight thousand have been butchered in cold blood. The massacres at Damascus were not known at this date. The most sickening details are given of the barbarity inflicted on all ages and sexes.

A French vessel had been sent to Latakia, and was obliged to take up a position within firing distance of the town, in order to restrain the fanatical portion of the inhabitants from committing further outrages.

The Austrian frigate Radisdy has been ordered to proceed to Syria to co-operate with vessels of other powers there.

Great agitation prevailed at Aleppo and at Killis City.

PARIS, Thursday, July 19.—The Moniteur says the Sultan has addressed the following letter to the Emperor, of the 16th July:

"I have at her t that Majesty should know with what grief I have learned the events in Syria. Let your Majesty be convinced that I shall employ all my powers for establishing security and order in Syria; that I shall severely punish the guilty parties, whoever they may be, and render justice to all. In order to leave no doubt whatever of the intentions of my Government, I have intrusted that important mission to my Minister for Foreign Affairs, with whose principles your Majesty is acquainted."

It is reported in Paris that the French Government has received a communication from St. Petersburg, expressing the desire of Russia to act in concert with France and England in the East. The Russian Cabinet reiterates its opinions that the events now transpiring in the East hold in suspense the peace of the world, and that the very existence of Turkey is at stake.

The Pays seems to imply that more massacres are in contemplation, and that the existing state of the disturbances in Syria have ramifications with other parts of the Ottoman territory—that the events in Syria were only a prelude to a formidable rising of the Ottoman population against the Christians, and the sinister projects are stated to have been long since concocted by fanatical conspirators.

The Paris correspondent of the Herald says the 4,000 men collected at Tchiflick have not embarked, as the dispatch of a large force has been decided on.

COMMENTS OF THE PRESS.

[From the London Times.]

The accounts received yesterday from the coast of Syria have confirmed all our worst fears. On the 9th of this month the city of Damascus was attacked by the Druses, and 500 Christians are said to have perished. The Christians, with the exception of the Seraglio, were turned over. In short, the whole place seems to have been at the mercy of the marauding army, the Turkish authorities having shown their usual complicity with the aggressors. This frightful proof must remove the scruples of the most cautious and timid. Intervention must take place to save the world from crimes which will be a reproach to it for ages. No one has felt what another week may bring forth. The next mail from Beyrout may inform us that Aleppo has shared the fate of Damascus; that all Jerusalem Christians of every nation and church, including a number of Protestant Englishmen, have been put to the sword. Whatever may have been the beginning of this tragedy, there can be no doubt that it has assumed a most formidable character. Yesterday it was a feud between two mountain tribes; to-morrow it may be the onslaught of the Mussulman races on the Christian, whom recent events have caused them to look upon with increasing hatred and dread. Before succor can arrive, before the Porte can be made to feel that Europe will stand no trifling in this matter, it may be that every village in Syria may, like that of Ain, may be stained with blood. Races which have lived in security for centuries under the protection of the European powers, may be swept from the earth by the mere outbreak of fanaticism, all hopes of a better future may be destroyed, and the regeneration of these unhappy lands made impossible for ever by a single month of unchecked lawlessness. When too late, it may be discovered that civilization has been once more overwhelmed by a deluge, as it was beginning to blossom and to give hopes of bringing forth fruit.

It is strange that a land which was the cradle of Christianity should continue, age after age, to be the place of its sharpest trial. It would almost seem as if a spell hung over that renowned and holy corner of Asia, and condemned it to keep forever its former likeness, to furnish persecutors and martyrs, frenzied multitudes demanding blood, and timid Governors giving up the guiltless to death. Since the days when the Patriarchates of Antioch and Jerusalem went down under the first shock of Arab invasion, the Christians of Syria and Palestine have been the most ill-used subjects of the most fanatical part of Islam. Their fate has generally resembled that of the tribes whom Israel, aided before, found in the same land. They have been exterminated, or reduced to the condition of slaves, or forced to conform to the victorious faith. The small number of Christians now in Syria and Egypt, compared with the vast multitudes whom the first Caliphs found in those countries, shows how active have been all the causes of depopulation. In the earlier periods of the conquest the slaughter was probably enormous; in later times misery has done the work of the sword. The population has died out, or merged into the dominant races. What can be more astounding than the fact that they had a real justification in the evils endured by their fellow Christians, and probably from the religious spirit which prompted such atrocities should not have found a response in some act of cruelty. In Europe and in Asia Minor the Christian has had only to do with the Turk, whose passions have been governed by his qualities as a politician and a ruler. Nowhere in the western parts of the empire have slaves of Greek faith been subjected to habitual ill usage and the periodical violence which has been the portion of the Syrian Christians from their Mussulman masters.

What is to be done in a country in which these things are so often happening, and in which they may happen at any hour? Are we to give up the land with the less right to interest than any other to the human race, that every man of our religion may be exterminated from it and their place supplied by the only the most savage populations of the East? Are we who have kept the Sultan on his throne, to acquiesce in a state of things which will make it an difficult for us hereafter to visit the scenes of Christian history as to penetrate into the mosques of Mecca? Are we to permit Aleppo, Damascus, Jerusalem, and perhaps every city and crowd which had become a volcano, even though it remained but for a few hours.

THEIR PROPOSED FUTURE MOVEMENTS.

Reception Train from this City.

A more notable affair in the line of excursions has seldom if ever taken place than the visit of the party of distinguished strangers from the extreme South, that reached our city last evening at 11.30 P. M.

It will be remembered by our readers from our previous reference to it, that this is the return excursion from that section, responsive to the visit paid by numerous citizens of the Northwest to New Orleans, some months since, the occasion, then as now, being the appropriate recognition of the importance of the completion of the nearly continuous line of railroad connecting the lakes with the gulf, and thus opening a channel of trade and intercourse superior to all vicissitudes of the season, which "seags" and "sawyers" can never mar.

The connecting lines of railroad forming this route, have united in this excursion, and with those lines acting with them, have made the affair throughout one of lavish liberality, and an entire success thus far.

The labors of our special reporter enable us to present to our readers the leading incidents of the trip, and a complete list of the excursionists, which we have chosen to present entire, for we do not exaggerate the value and importance of this bringing together the various sections of the Union in the persons, on the present occasion, of some of the most distinguished representatives of Southern social life.

THE SLAVE TRADE.

The Evening Post prints a list of eighty-three American vessels which have been taken while engaged in the infamous Slave Trade, during the last eighteen months, most of which were fitted out at the port of New York, probably by the men who are now actively engaged in electing a Democrat and saving the Union. What else could be expected? When such men as Isaiah Rynders are the appointed officers of the law, upon whose fidelity and honesty its execution depends,—what but this disgraceful showing could be looked for? The country may have the consolation of knowing that when Abraham Lincoln takes the reins, the nest of the horrible traffic will be in places not within the reach of the Federal power!

CATHOLIC PROSCRIPTION—IRISH KNOW-NOTHINGISM.

The Fathers of the Republic, when they divorced Church and State, and abolished all theological tests in governmental affairs, hoped and believed that they had left no cause for religious intolerance, and that in the dim future of American politics, all sects and denominations would vote upon the merits of political questions, regardless of the faith of candidates or the requirements of creeds. Opening the door to the incoming of all shades of religious belief—protecting all in the enjoyment of their opinions and rights of worship—cutting up tithes, church-rates and tests—making all men equal before the law—they left the country to their descendants.

Up to this time, the work of the Fathers, except in narrow localities, has not been impaired. Know-Nothingism—a protest against the interference of foreign ecclesiastics in our home matters, and the fraudulent use of a certain foreign element in our politics—stifles—accomplished itself out. Its proscriptive tendencies, which included all religions and all races, made it hateful to a majority of the American people; and its influence ceased. It made a rapid race and achieved many victories which crumbled in its grasp, and bore no fruit. We opposed it, because we believed its fundamental rights of man as man, regardless of time, birthplace or religion. The same principles of toleration which made us cry out against lodges, councils, secret meetings and pass words, all having proscription for their object, impel us now. If we could not look with favor upon dark-lantern associations of Americans by birth and Protestants by religion, we should not be blamed if we declaim against the new and threatening attitude of the Catholic Church and the Catholic Irish in this country. If we could not do wrong that a supposed good might come to the Protestant religion and our countrymen by birth and blood, we shall not be required to hold our peace when we are brought in contact with a worse form of Know-Nothingism, which has for its object the supremacy of another religion and another and an alien race. Now for the application:

The country is enlivened by an active political strife. In the contest are questions which touch great social and economical problems—the extension or non-extension of Slavery over territory now free—the proposed change in the commercial policy, whereby the labor of the farmers and mechanics of the the whole land may be better rewarded—the Homestead measure, the adoption of which will insure homes and land for the homeless and landless—the reduction of the expenses of the national administration to a point where they will cease to be oppressive to the payers of duties and taxes—the prohibition of the African Slave Trade, which has sprung into great activity during the life of the dynasty now in power,—these things are widely discussed, but with an exception, by and by to be pointed out, no church or religious organization has thought of dragging theological matters into the strife. The members of all the Protestants sects are scattered through all the parties. Methodists, Baptists, Presbyterians, Universalists, Unitarians, Episcopalians, and all others divide up and vote for this candidate or that candidate, some for Douglas, some for Bell, some for Breckinridge, some for Lincoln and Breckinridge are nominally Presbyterians; but who hears that the Presbyterian Church goes as a body for either? There has been a belief, as erroneous as wide-spread, that Mr. Douglas is a Baptist; but are the Baptists for him to a man? We do not know what are Bell's theological notions; but who hears of any sect voting for him in a mass, because he is their brother? The American people and a majority of the naturalized citizens see in the struggle between the parties no theological significance. They are content to maintain the separation between Church and State, which the Fathers established, and to make candidates for popular favor depend upon their ability, honesty and fitness—not their religious belief.

To this rule, among all denominations and sects, there is but a single exception. The Catholic Church and the Catholic Irish are illustrating a new phase of Know Nothingism. The bishops, priests, laymen and journals of that sect and that nation have abandoned the obligations of toleration upon which all others have agreed to act, and, with hardly exceptions enough to prove the rule, have committed themselves to Douglas. Where, we ask, is there in the North or South a Catholic journal that, no matter what its course in regard to the social and economical issues in the contest, opposes him? Where is there an Irish priest who is not openly or secretly his partisan? Where is there an Irish laymen who is not willing to work, vote, or fight that Douglas may succeed?

Now we want to know why this Know-Nothingism is set up? What reason lies behind this unanimous action, so different from that which marks the course of the other religious sects? Is Douglas a Catholic? We do not assert it, but the appearances are against him. He may be or may not be. Thousands say that he is; few say that he is not. We do not care. His religious opinions are his own, and we have no right to meddle therewith. But we have a right to protest in the most emphatic manner against the establishment of religious tests in American politics, in such a way that a numerous and powerful sect, entertaining the dangerous views of government to which all live Catholics must hold, may be ranged almost to the last man in favor of any candidate, no matter who. We want to know, and we have a right to inquire, what it means. Have the Catholic Irish agreed to make an attack upon the principle of toleration by which they are all allowed civil rights, and by voting in a mass for one man, said to be of their Church, bring on again the strife that was long ago supposed to be settled? If not so, what promises have been made by Judge Douglas, that they should be called out of all other organizations, headed together and hurled as a mass against the Republican ranks? What advantages in diplomacy, in legislation, in the distribution of the spoils have they secured, that Know Nothingism in its worst form has sprung up among them? What does it all mean? What danger does it not import? Are Lincoln, Bell Breckinridge and Houston proscribed because they are Protestants? Is Douglas voted for because he is of the Catholic faith? It behooves men who want to see the principle of religious toleration maintained to ask the answer to these questions.

☞ A thief confined in the jail at Hudson City, Wis., made his escape last week. He left a letter for the editor of the Hudson Times, thanking several individuals, his counsel, sheriff, &c. He also says that he wants to vote the Democratic ticket in November, and close confinement is incompatible with such arrangement.

Bond Robbery.—A stranger, while purchasing a ticket at the office of the Hannibal and St. Joseph Railroad Depot, in St. Joseph, on Friday, was robbed of a pocket containing $2,000 in gold and a valuable watch. The satchel was afterwards found minus the money.

Wheat Crop.—The Committee on Farms of the State Agricultural Society of Wisconsin, from a careful estimate, set down the wheat crop of that State for the year 1860, at 25,000,000 of bushels.

Wisconsin Strawberries.—A family named Cooley, in Walworth Co., Wis., four of the members and two of the sisters have cultivated patches during the past ten years.

THE DOUGLAS SLAVE CODE PLATFORM.

In a recent article we stated that the following resolution was the first plank in the Douglas platform, adopted at Charleston, and proceeded to comment on it at some length:

"That inasmuch as differences of opinion exist in the Democratic party as to the nature and extent of the powers of a Territorial Legislature, and as to the powers and duties of Congress under the Constitution of the United States over the institution of Slavery within the Territories:

"Resolved, That the Democratic party will abide by the decision of the Supreme Court of the United States on questions of Constitutional law."

The late Chicago Times denied that the Squatter platform contained such a plank. We contented ourself with replying that the Wickliffe plank inserted at Baltimore covered substantially the same ground, worded in more strong and comprehensive language. Neither the Times nor the Herald objected to our statement. We may here remark, that we clipped the above resolution from the N. Y. Herald, and saw it in many of our Eastern exchanges.

We were confident that such a plank had been offered and acted upon at Charleston; and to satisfy our curiosity, we took the trouble to look over the record of both the Charleston and Baltimore Conventions, and here is the result of the investigation:

On April 27th, being the fifth day of the Charleston Convention, the Committee of thirty-three—one from each State, made their first Majority and Minority report. The Majority Report was signed by the fifteen Southern States and California and Oregon—making seventeen States. The Minority Report received the signatures of the members of the Committee from fifteen Northern States, and was presented to the Convention by Edwin Croswell of New York. Among the names attached to it are C. B. Ficklin of Illinois, H. B. Payne of Ohio, A. S. Palmer of Wisconsin, Ben. M. Samuels of Iowa, and P. C. Dunning of Indiana—all Douglasites.

The second plank in the minority (Douglas) platform reads as follows:

Resolved, That all questions in regard to the rights of property (slaves) in States or Territories, arising under the Constitution of the United States, are judicial in their character, and the Democratic party is pledged to abide by and faithfully carry out such determination of these questions as has been or may be made by the Supreme Court of the United States.

This resolution contains a pledge to pass a slave code, in the expression "the Democratic party is pledged to carry out the determination made or to be made by the Supreme Court, in regard to the rights of property in the Territories;" and it is a clear and unqualified surrender of the doctrine of "unfriendly legislation," or the "right of the people of a Territory to govern themselves." This resolution received the signatures of all the Douglas members of the Committee.

A long debate followed the report of the two platforms. Payne of Ohio, was put forward by the Douglas members of the Convention to advocate the adoption of the Minority report. Among other things he said: "We will abide by the decision of the courts. The Dred Scott decision having been rendered since the Cincinnati platform was adopted, renders this proper. We will take that decision, and abide by it, like loyal, steadfast, 'true-hearted men. Is not that enough?"

Butler of Massachusetts, replied to Payne. Among other things he said:

"The second resolution was very dangerous. It pledged the Democratic party to all the decisions of the Supreme Court, whether it was this the doctrine old Hickory? Why it would be enough to make the bones of Gen. Jackson rattle in his coffin to have such a resolution as that entertained by a Democratic Convention."

Finally, after a long debate, on motion of Bigler of Pennsylvania, both the majority and minority platforms were recommitted by the close vote of yeas 152, nays 151—the Douglas members all voting against recommitment.

On the afternoon of the 28th of April the Committee reported back two platforms. Samuels of Iowa, on behalf of the Minority, (Douglasites,) reported a platform which he said was identical with the report that was presented yesterday by the Minority Committee, except the second resolution which had been stricken out, and substituted by the following:

"That inasmuch as differences of opinion exist in the Democratic party as to the nature and extent of the powers of a Territorial Legislature, and as to the powers and duties of Congress under the Constitution of the United States over the institution of Slavery within the Territories;

"Resolved, That the Democratic party will abide by the decision of the Supreme Court of the United States, when that decision is rendered, in relation to the rights of property in the Territories."

This fully explains both planks,—the Wickliffe as well as the Charleston resolution. Each pledges the party to the following:

1. The right to take slaves into the Territories.

2. The duty of Congress to pass a slave code for the protection of Slavery in the Territories.

3. That Congress cannot prohibit Slavery in the Territories.

4. That the Territories themselves cannot prohibit it.

5. That the doctrine of "unfriendly legislation" is a humbug and a fraud, and was invented by Douglas as a dodge to enable him to escape from Lincoln's hug at Freeport.

6. That the people of a Territory are not allowed to govern themselves, where such government comes in conflict with the assumptions of the American aristocracy—the slave-breeders.

To all of which, jointly and singly, Douglas gives his full acquiescence and sanction in his letter of acceptance.

If any further evidence were required to prove the correctness of these deductions, it would be found in the published opinions of Herschel V. Johnson, who not only endorses them all, but is in favor of the revival of the African Slave Trade, and the further atrocity of the capitalists everywhere owning the laborers, whether white or black. No man opposed to a slave code, no man denying the horrible doctrine that the Constitution recognizes property in man, can honestly support Stephen A. Douglas for President, who is committed by his platform and letter of acceptance to both.

Exciting Contest in St. Louis.

There has never been so exciting a canvass in St. Louis as is going on now. Ward and mass meetings are held nightly. The streets are filled with torchlight processions, Wide-Awakes, Invincibles, and every other species of partisan turnouts. All descriptions of banners, transparencies, emblems and devices are borne on the march or displayed at the places of meeting. The crowds that gather at the market places range from 500 to 10,000 according to the attractions and effort to assemble the masses.

Speakers from abroad have been sent for to aid each side in the fierce struggle. The heat of the battle is on member of Congress. The candidates are Blair, Rep., Barrett, Douglas and Breck. Dem., and Todd, Bellverett. Blair having ousted Barrett from his seat in the contest, in Congress, on the grounds of illegal voting, then resigned the place he had won, and both men have taken an appeal to their constituents for an endorsement. Both are candidates for re-election for the unexpired term, and also for the full term, commencing March 4, 1861. The Bellverett men are running Todd for the long term, but no candidate for the short term.

Most of the Bellverettes, it seems, intend to vote for Barrett for the short term and thereby defeat Blair. Barrett is carrying water on both shoulders as between Douglas and Breckinridge and is receiving the united support of both factions. And it is said the Bell party, if it probable that he will be elected for the short term. But the great fight is on the long, or two year term. We have strong hopes that Blair will come out ahead, and beat the candidate of both factions united. The last time he ran, August 1858, the vote stood as follows:

Barrett (Democrat).....	7,057
Blair (Republican).....	6,831
Breckinridge (American).....	5,668

It will be seen that the three parties were pretty evenly balanced. If the Americans desert their own candidate, Todd, and vote for Barrett, the result may hardly be doubtful.

The election takes place next Monday Aug. 6th. We shall look for the result of this tremendous struggle in a slave-holding city, with deep solicitude. The Republicans are fighting manfully, and facing the slave power boldly in one of its dens. May victory crown the right.

Washington Matters.

WASHINGTON, July 30, 1860.

REMOVAL OF THE POSTMASTER AT COLUMBUS, OHIO.

The President has just removed Miller, Postmaster at Columbus, Ohio, (the 70th the Breckinridge Committee cutting off heads in New York with great rapidity; but no advertisement is made of these decapitations.) The axe falls in secret, and the only notice to the public is when the removed victims are seen walking about headless.

REQUEST TO THE CHILDREN OF JUDGE DOUGLAS.

By the death last week of the mother of Judge Douglas' first wife, who was a Miss Martin, of North Carolina, two boys, his only children, come into the possession of a large fortune. The Judge has been sent for by his connections South to attend the funeral. His New England tour will probably visit the old North State.

THE LIME POINT SWINDLE.

You will remember Broderick's overwhelming exposure on the Lime Point Purchase in California, for which some $250,000 was asked by the interested parties; but under Broderick's terrible array of facts the Government refused. It is now understood that the purchase of this Point has just been decided upon by the Administration under the opinion of the Attorney General for $100,000! Broderick proved that a man's worth $50,000 could do the deed, if that money will go to help out the Breckinridge fund. I will have more to say about Lime Point hereafter.

ANOTHER DECISION OF THE ATTORNEY GENERAL.

Judge Black has just decided a case which proved his love of justice and of law. When Mr. Broderick last left the Atlantic States for California he made an assignment of his pay to two of his friends, during his absence on duty in New York, which, after his death, was approved by his administrators. The Secretary of the Senate, Mr. Dickie, refused paying it, owing to the action of the Judiciary Committee of the Senate, and the Senate, by an almost unanimous vote, just before the last adjournment, directed him to pay it, by a small majority. Thurston, being a secret opposition to his paying it, he referred the case to the Attorney General, who decided that he could not pay it—and so the feeble authority directing its payment goes for nothing.

The Census of New York.

The reports of the census taken of the city of New York are so nearly made out, that tolerably close computations of the population are made. New York proper is set down as containing 862,257 inhabitants. They N. Y. Tribune says:

On the present basis of representation, this city is entitled to nine members of Congress instead of 8?, as now—leaving a fraction of 50,000. Including part of Williamsburg. The Seventeenth Ward alone would return one member, and the Eighteenth and Twenty-second would be entitled to one of itself to another. The figures show very significantly the result of the up-town movements of our people. Nearly all the down-town wards have decreased in the number of their inhabitants, or are on a stand-still. The Second, Third and Fifth Wards have large interests in a business point of view, though they have lost of resident population.

The value of the real and personal estate of the city of New York is set down at $700,000,000.

In Brooklyn, the ratio of increase will be very much greater than in the city. The Eleventh Ward of Brooklyn, which in 1855 contained 40,000, now has over 45,000. This ward is very wealthy, perhaps the richest in the city of churches.

After the best efforts of the Marshals, it is feared that the total population as returned by them, will fall short from 50,000 to 100,000 of the real number of inhabitants of the city of New York, owing to the absence of many citizens from town, the stupidity and wilful misrepresentation of some persons, and the absolute refusal of a few to be counted in the operations. This will be equivalent to the loss of one representative in Congress.

Late from the Slaving Fleet.

By a recent arrival from the coast of Africa, we learn, says the Boston Traveler, that there were seven American vessels in the Congo river, June 4th, trading or waiting orders to trade, which were not reported. English cruisers had been alongside of them all, found that they were not to be boarded with impunity, and practically had left, as several officers had resigned, been reprimanded by the Admiralty for going on board American vessels without permission. Incidentally we have been informed that a regular fleet of vessels clear from different ports of the United States at the same time, and load distributed among them are stores and water to fit out two or three of them for slavers, and that when the coast is clear they all combine to add the selected vessels in receiving stores and slaves with the greatest possible dispatch. By these means a cargo of 1,000 to 1,200 may be all engaged in the slave trade, without having on board sufficient slave material to convict any one of them.

This system might be termed the "mutual aid dodge." We understand that it works successfully. It rarely happens that there is more than one cruiser near a noted slave mart, and if she should succeed in making a prize, she generally leaves the place with it and proceeds to St. Helena or Sierra Leone. Aware of her absence the "mutual aid" slavers dispatch as many of their number as possible and generally run clear. We have also been informed, that two or three well-known slavers were fitting out on the shield from ports in Cuba, and that great gains were expected from them. As we have no steam vessels of the class required for such a trade we suppose they have been built in England, and are of iron.

If these statements are correct, the slave trade, by the language of the markets, must be "looking up" and the "mutual aid" system is understood "native, with an increased demand."

Lemuel Bouvier.

Lemuel Bouvier, Mr. Hallinde, who lately died in Pennsylvania, bequeathed $10,000 to the Methodist church, $10,000 to the Asylum for the Blind, $50,000 to his nephew, and $450,000 to Miss Adele of this city. These bequests are to be paid within one year. Mr. Hallinde was a native of Switzerland, and came to this country when quite young. He was a bachelor, and died at the age of 70 years.

OUR BOSTON LETTER.

Harvard Commencement—A new Presidency—Speech of Governor Andrew—Speech of Hon. Wm. Evarts—Gov. T. Curtis on Abolitionism—Butler turned out of the party—Speech of Everett—Materials Massing and Thunderbolts.

[Correspondence of the Press and Tribune.]

BOSTON, July 28, 1860.

I have not proposed to give you a detailed account of commencement at Harvard College, for the reason that I saw but little of it and did not wish to see more unless under circumstances of greatly increased hospitality. It seemed as though special pains was taken to provide for no one outside of a circle of distinction. With great labor I managed to hear about half of the speakers, and I should judge from these specimens that there is a good deal of style and not much vigor in the Harvard type of education (?) here. Phillips, himself a fine scholar and very manly, said after hearing the exercises of the Yale students two or three years ago:—"These graduates are men; we graduate boys at Harvard." There is much more of education for the show of it at Harvard than at Yale, less for the sake of good work and human welfare.

The graduating class have been found from accurate statistics to stand in politics and in religious belief as follows: Democrats 9, Union 23, Republicans 74. In faith 58 are Unitarian and 48 Trinitarian. Mr. Douglas occupied a place on the platform, and it was currently reported that he expected to receive the degree of LL.D. He sat next to the distinguished President of Yale College, Rev. Dr. Theodore D. Woolsey, an earnest and able anti slavery Republican and a man who sees through a sham and hates mean men as few men can.

On Thursday, the 19th, the new President, C. C. Felton, LL.D., late professor of the Greek language and literature, was inaugurated. The Courier paid Gov. Banks a compliment for his speech on the occasion. Dr. Osgood of New York, delivered the alumni oration, after which President Felton delivered his inaugural. The Rev. Dr. Peabody leaves the finest Unitarian parish in New England, in Portsmouth, N. H., to become preacher to the University and Plummer Professor of Christian morals. He will enter on the new work on September. After the inauguration there was an alumni dinner at Harvard Hall, at which O. W. Holmes, Jr., presided. Speeches were made by Gov. Banks, President Felton, Chief Justice Shaw, Edward Everett, Dr. Holmes, Ex-President Walker, Rev. Dr. Osgood, Rev. Dr. Bellows, President Sterns of Amherst College, and Thomas W. Higginson, among other sentiments was one in honor of Charles Sumner, which was received with tremendous applause and great cheering. I notice that Wendell Phillips, Garrison and Oliver W. Holmes, Jr., are among the editors for the coming year of the magazine published by the students.

The College Union Regatta, at Worcester, on the 24th and 25th proved a great affair in more senses than one. Harvard won the champion colors. An Amherst man took first prize in the race on the second day, making better time than the Harvard made the day before in the College race. A good deal of drinking and wild enough fun went during the stay of the students. I hear that the faculty of Yale College have passed a law forbidding participation in any regatta out of New Haven. The citizens of Worcester will not care to invite the boys to row and room another year.

The Chicago Zouaves have visited us, to the satisfaction of everybody. They will have the credit of setting on foot a great improvement of the condition of the volunteer companies of the whole country. Such is the influence of one example of work well done.

Mr. Geo. T. Curtis made a speech at a Bell and Everett meeting the other day in which he objected to Abraham Lincoln on the ground that he is not known. One would suppose that the famous contest with Douglas, and the election of the Chicago Convention, constituted something of a knowledge—although Mr. Lincoln has not the advantage of being a star in the Ledger universe. It is not generally known, either, that Mr. Curtis has written a book which he has just published, a life issued from the ballot box in November from which he that runs shall read who Abraham Lincoln is. Mr. Curtis further said that he was not alarmed at the number of conservative men who are supporters of the Republican candidates. It is to be hoped that Mr. Curtis is able to support an unbiased and unprejudiced assessment for he will find growing sense for it until November. It is seriously reported that Mr. Everett will withdraw on the ground that he is sold to Douglas. We don't think he will do it, because I doubt whether he will know that he has been sold until election day.

There was a stormy Democratic meeting at Lowell on the 26th. It was called to ratify the nomination of Breckinridge and Lane, but a Douglas president was appointed, a motion made to vote for Gen. Butler out of the party, and the thing virtually accomplished by the groans and hisses of the crowd. Gen. Butler was a popular leader until he went round at a Democratic meeting in a desperate effort to be heard and to appeal to old grounds of confidence in him, but it would not answer. He was driven from the meeting with a storm of hisses and hootings.

The Tickners have just brought out a new edition of the poems of Gerald Massey, the fresh and vigorous poet of the popular heart of England, not alone of the politics and social ideas of the masses, but also of the loftiest inspirations. Dr. Bayard Taylor, in a preface, dedicates the volume to C. T. Fields. It contains from 180 to 190 pages of new matter, some of the finest which he has yet written. The same publishers have issued the memorials of Thomas Hood and it is confidently expected that they will soon bring out a complete edition of Hood's writings, a thing much needed.

Crops in Carroll County.

FAIR HAVEN, Carroll Co., July 25, 1860.

Editors Press and Tribune:

We had a heavy shower here on Saturday night. Wheat, barley and oats are nearly all cut and in shock, and are not damaged any yet. Stacking will be vigorously prosecuted this week, should the present favorable weather last.

For the size of our county, and number of inhabitants, we challenge any other spot in the State to produce as many bushels of grain, or as many Lincoln votes next fall as we can.

Death of Oliver Newberry.

[From the Detroit Free Press, July 31.]

The announcement of the death of the well-known citizen whose name is at the head of this article will be received with universal regret by the inhabitants of this community, where he has occupied a respectable and influential position for many years. Mr. Newberry died at his residence on Fort street yesterday afternoon about 4 o'clock, after an illness of only three weeks. He had been suffering from an attack of erysipelas, which affected his lower limbs only, and which gave promise of yielding to the remedies administered by his physician, so much so that on the previous evening his friends had been advised that he was beyond any immediate danger of death. Yesterday morning he was feeling very comfortable and cheerful, and at noon partook of a hearty repast. Soon, however, indications were apparent that the fatal disease had fastened upon the vital organs, and death ensued with wonderful suddenness.

Mr. Newberry was one of the old class of citizens. He was born near New Haven in the State of Connecticut, in 1789, and was consequently 71 years of age. While he was yet a young man his parents emigrated to Western New York, which was then considered as the far west. On the breaking out of the last war with England, young Newberry volunteered his services in defence of his country, and marched with the company of which he was a member to Sackett's Harbor, on Lake Ontario, but the engagement at that point had taken place before his arrival. He was, however, called upon to perform military duty in other directions, and served faithfully during the term of his enlistment. At the close of the war he settled in Ohio, where he remained about seven years, removing to Michigan in 1819. He has since resided in Detroit.

Upon his arrival in this city he entered into mercantile business, opening a general store in the building on Jefferson avenue, now occupied by ex-Justice Epworth. He subsequently did quite an extensive business as a fur trader. When the commerce of the lakes began to attract the attention of capitalists and vessels became numerous [Mr. Newberry was among the first to enter into the forwarding and commission business, and has since held a position among the leading shipping merchants of the city. He has built and owned a large number of steamboats and vessels, in which he has been more fortunate than any of his cotemporaries. The steamer Michigan, which has for years been on the route between Buffalo and Green Bay, was built by him, as also was the Wisconsin, a same name which served a faithful term. Besides these he has put many other first class boats upon the lake and among them the old Illinois, of which the celebrated Captain Blake was the commander for a long time, also the Nile and numerous others of less note. With many vessels sailing the lakes which he has built every port on the vast stretch of inland waters, and no where has it been known but with respect, in the prosecution of his business, by diligent application and integrity and honesty in his dealing, he has amassed a large fortune.

Mr. Newberry was never married, and of course leaves no family. He has, for a number of years kept house, a maiden sister filling the position of housekeeper. Besides her, three brothers survive him, one of whom, Henry is a resident of Detroit.

ALLEGED ABANDONMENT OF THE RUSSIAN SERF EMANCIPATION SCHEME.—We copy the following important paragraph from one of the last letters of the Boston Traveller's Paris correspondent:

I may note among new books of the week, "Truth About Russia," by Prince Peter Dolgorouky, showing all the clears which corrupt that great body politic, and indicating what, in the Prince's opinion, is the only remedy for the evils exposed. We read this book with the greater interest, as we are daily looking for a great revolution in Russia. The Czar has abandoned his project of emancipation, which proves not to be the man able to cope with the formidable obstacles to that policy. A rising of the serfs is anticipated.

A Dog Over Niagara Falls without Injury.—The truth of such stories, as we have been told, (without receiving much credence,) of dogs going over the Falls and surviving the passage, was tested the other day, according to the Niagara Falls Gazette, and fairly established. The Gazette says:

John, the property of Mr. Bishop, his dog left the rapids near Goat Island Bridge, and immediately afterwards went to the foot of the ferry stairs and found him but little injured by the passage down. The water was very high, and we presume some horrendous pummeling

Schurz and Blair in St. Clair.

[Correspondence of the Press and Tribune.]

BELLEVILLE, Ill., July 30, 1860.

I desire for the encouragement of our friends every where to say that the Republicans of old St. Clair are wide awake and at work. We had a glorious ratification meeting last Saturday, the 28th. Our notices of the meeting had been published but a few days, yet there was by far the largest meeting ever held in our county, and perhaps the largest ever convened south of Springfield. Hon. F. P. Blair, Jr., made one of his most able and eloquent speeches, which was greeted with the most enthusiastic applause. Carl Schurz then spoke in German, and to judge from the enthusiasm and applause of his hearers, his speech must have been a masterly one. At all events it convinced a number of German Democrats that they had been deceived and misled by the bogus Democracy, and they determined to leave the rotten old concern, and join the Republican party.

Schurz was followed by Hon. Joe. Gillespie, our candidate for Congress, who seemed to be inspired. He completely seathed the old Clay Whigs who are now running after this strange God, Douglas. In fact it was one of the best speeches I ever listened to from anybody. There was speaking in the evening by Mr. Allen, our candidate for elector, and Fred. Hecker in German, both of whom made most eloquent speeches. But the grandest spectacle was the torchlight procession. Mr. Schurz said he had never seen one anywhere equal to it.

The Democrats have called a Congressional ratification meeting at this place on the 23d of August, and they say that they will get up as big a meeting by calling in all the tribes of the faithful from every county of the Congressional District, as we had on Saturday last, which was only called as a County meeting, and with but few days notice. But after all their efforts in giving long notice and sending drummers into every county of the District, I predict it will be one grand fizzle. Indeed Douglas and Squatter Sovereignty are nearly played out, even down in Egypt, and it will be hard for Don Morrison and other "quasi Whig" leaders, whose political lives are also rapidly drawing to a close, to infuse any life or spirit into the rotten old corpse of bogus Democracy.

Fremont beat old Buck in this county 265 votes. We now intend to give Old Abe and the whole ticket—Legislative and all—at least 600 majority. We also intend to elect John Scheil to the Senate from this District, which will be a gain for us. Douglasites are beginning to see that they cannot carry the State for "little Dug," and they will fight desperately, and use every means, fair or foul, in their power to carry the Legislature, defeat Trumbull for the Senate, and secure the districting of the State for Congress and future Legislatures. Let Republicans, therefore, be on their guard in this respect. ST. CLAIR.

Nominations in Vermillion County.

[Correspondence of the Press and Tribune.]

DANVILLE, Ill., July 30, 1860.

Our County Convention for nominating candidates for county officers was held at the Court House on last Saturday, and was the occasion of an unusual outpouring of the people.

The attendance was larger than has been witnessed at a similar gathering for many years, and aside from a warm personal contest for the offices of representative and circuit clerk, was entirely harmonious.

The following most excellent ticket was placed in the field:

For Representative—Oscar F. Harmon.
For Circuit Clerk—Elijah A. McKee.
For Sheriff—James Probst.

They are all good, true, sound Republicans, Mr. Harmon was our last member in the House, and this indorsement of his private and public character by the Republicans of the county, is well merited. His record shows him to have been a working and efficient member, and aside from his high rank as a lawyer, he is a shrewd business man, and well understands the tricks of the Douglasites. If all the Republican members of the next House are as good men as O. F. Harmon, great and good results will crown the session.

We fully appreciate in this locality the importance of a fair and equitable apportionment by the next General Assembly, and the re election of Hon. Lyman Trumbull, and are bound to do our duty in the accomplishment of both.

Listen for about seven hundred majority from old Vermillion next November.

Yours for the cause, VERMILLION.

The Bloomington Debate—Opinion of a Correspondent.

CHICAGO, July 31, 1860.

Editors Press and Tribune:

I observe that the "Small Consolidated," has a communication from some voracious correspondent of the Washington Constitution, declaring that the joint discussion at that place last Friday between Senator Trumbull and Jim Allen, resulted in a signal triumph of the valorous Jim, and giving a pretended synopsis of the argument on either side—with how much fairness any one can see by referring to your verbatim report of Monday morning.

I wish to say that I was present on that occasion, and if Lyman Trumbull was vanquished then and there, why, commend me to defeat all the rest of my life! The fact is that while the redoubtable Jim was going through the tirade of sophistry and slang, which comprised his arguments, (heaven save the mark!) the Hibernian element, of which there was a fair sprinkling, on every occasion when Jim rolled his eyes in his peculiarly African style, set up any of those diabolical howls, heard only at wakes; but when the distinguished Senator came to reply, and by a few well directed strokes knocked the props from under the office holder and gubernatorial aspirant had erected with so much agony, the Hibernians subsided, and many of the leading Douglas men left the ground, with all relishing "the law and testimony" which the speaker poured in upon them. Lovejoy's flagellation of poor Pickles, which succeeded was the crowning argument, and was overwhelming. I predict that the day is far distant when Jim Allen will wish to meet Lyman Trumbull on the stump again, or when O. D. Pickles will wish to speak from the same stand with Owen Lovejoy.

As an indication of the feeling there, as to who had won the day, I would say that the next quarters announced, with a great flourish of trumpets, at the close of the discussion, that distinguished "Great Principle" advocates would address their brethren in the Court House yard in the evening, when Owen Lovejoy's old legislative record was to be aired. The Republicans were in attendance in force at Phœnix Hall. At the appointed time the Republicans assembled in the hall, but the Court House yard was silent as the grave! In order to accommodate the crowds who could not get into the Hall, after waiting a long time, and seeing no indications of squatter sovereignty in the Court House yard, the meeting adjourned thither, lighted up and had some capital speeches from Messrs. Judd and Grimshaw. The squatters got out of it the next morning by claiming that the Republicans stole their place of meeting. Probably they felt oppressed by the laurels already won!

So much for the victory (?) of Jim Allen the valorous! He had much better stick to his epistolary warfare with Dick Yates, and if, as the consolidated's correspondent alleges, the Democracy of Mclean are much encouraged by the debate, my private opinion is that they should be presented a leather medal by the invincible Jim, for it sure nothing could ever discourage such a "jolly" set of Hark Tapleys!

A CHICAGO REPUBLICAN.

Judge Hassaurock in Decatur.

[Correspondence of the Press and Tribune.]

DECATUR, July 30, 1860.

We have this day enjoyed a rare treat in a speech from Judge Hassaurock, of Ohio, in the English and German languages, to about 800 voters. The speech in English lasted about one hour—the one in German two and a half hours. To say they were both good would not do them justice, for they were extra and did more good for the Republican cause than any two speeches ever delivered in this city before. The Germans are highly delighted, this being the first German speech ever delivered in Decatur. We are in hopes the State Central Committee will send us two or three more German speakers during the campaign. There are lots of good material to become Republicans since the twin birth of Sham Democracy. Our townsman, R. J. Oglesby, is doing a giant work for the good cause. His election to the State Senate is a sure thing. We have over 200 working as Wide-Awake. Our opponents, imitating us in all things, have organized a Hickory Club. At their Grant Parade to the cars for Springfield it numbered just 27 men and about 28 torches, led by a son of the Emerald Isle. You may look for a tremendous change in Egypt at the next election. Old Macon will wheel into line.

MASON.

A Reminiscence of 1848.

[Correspondence of the Press and Tribune.]

PEORIA, Ill., July 31, 1860.

Is Douglas a Catholic? That is the question. You have given some very strong affirmative evidence, and as yet no one seems able to prove anything but a bare denial in support of the negative. So far as the question affects Mr. D.'s moral or religious character, it is not of the least importance; but when we take into consideration the ambition of the Catholic Church for power and influence in the affairs of our government, in connection with the fact that this Church is combining its whole strength upon Mr. Douglas, the question becomes important, if not startling.

There are certain significant circumstances connected with a visit of Mr. Douglas to this city two years ago which I have never seen alluded to, but the occasion was quite conspicuous to them. Allow me to call attention to them.

Mr. D. arrived in this city on Saturday, Aug. 12, from Elmwood. On the same day Bishop O'Regan arrived here from College, escorting Mrs. Douglas. Mr. D., with an immense crowd of Irish Catholics, met them at the depot, when a procession was formed, which, headed by a band of music, proceeded first to escort the Bishop to his head-quarters, after which it escorted Mr. and Mrs. Douglas to theirs. The following Sabbath was a grand gala day among the Catholics. At an early hour a band of music was stationed in front of St. Mary's Church, and the report was circulated throughout the city that the Bishop and Mr. Douglas and lady were to be the attractions of the day. Thousands thronged the church, and in due time the chief characters of the occasion arrived, and were received with appropriate distinction. The exercises were lengthy and imposing and Mr. Douglas testified his appreciation of them at their close by dropping a $20 gold piece into the contribution box. In the afternoon, St. Mary's Society formed in procession, and headed by the distinguished strangers, marched to St. Joseph's Church, where similar exercises were gone through with.

Now all this does not perhaps prove that Mr. Douglas is a Catholic; but transpiring in an orthodox community like ours, let me ask if it is a reasonable presumption that he is a Protestant?

WASHINGTON, July 28.

THE ELVIRA SOUTHERNERS' GAME.

Great efforts are just now being made by the ultra Southern men in South Carolina and Mississippi, to secure the election of such gentlemen to the Legislature in those States as will instruct their Senators, and request their Representatives not to take their seats, in case Lincoln is elected President. The extreme Southern party see their chance now to urge violent measures, and the Douglas party, in their frenzy always full of water in each stall, with waste pipes to carry off the overflow, are ready and willing to go with them, from which it is pumped into carts, similar to ours for watering the streets, and sprinkled over the grass. Keeps none but Suffolk and Berkshire pigs; prefers former on account of their taking on fat—never gets the swinebreds scaled, "a dale of fat a dale quicker."

The pig pens are of stone, and paved with stone, being lower in the center, from which the pipe conducts the liquid manure to the tank. In the garden I saw peach, apricot and plum trees trained espalier; pine apples, strawberries and grapes in all stages of growth, the latter finer than in countries to which they are indigenous, and ripe all the year round. Melons will not grow in the open air, but they have very fine ones in frames. Her Majesty eats strawberries and cream with every meal. There are forty men to attend to the garden alone.

Mr. Tait, the gentlemanly manager of the farm, gave me every information desired. I also went to see the Queen's stables at Buckingham Palace—they would make more comfortable dwellings than six-tenths of the Londoners in London live in. English farriers have found out that the upper part of the stall ought to be lowered by two inches or more.

There are in those stables one hundred and six horses. Her Majesty is partial to grays, and may frequently be seen driving two in hand, in Windsor Park. The Princess also drives four ponies, and is said to be an excellent horsewoman. I saw the eight cream colored horses that draw Her Majesty at the time of opening or dissolving Parliament. Splendid animals!

Their harness is red morocco, gold mounted, cost $90,000, and the state carriage cost $35,000, ninety years ago.

A Fish's Nest and What was in it.

A correspondent of the New York Commercial gives a graphic account of the habits of a pair of sticklebacks in his aquarium, and of the general appearance of his marine museum. He says:

About a month ago the male sticklebacks began to assume very brilliant colors—a vermilion red underneath, and a deep sea green on the back—and then to form nests in the sea lettuce, and the females spawned. For a day or two the nests were vigilantly watched by the males, but subsequently abandoned. Suspecting that the hermit crabs had been filibustering among them, I removed those gentlemen from the tank, with everything else likely to disturb the interesting process. I was anxious to observe, leaving in it, in fact, only the actinias and a few shrimps and sea-snails.

I then procured another pair of sticklebacks from the museum, the female being nearly spawning. Within twenty-four hours the male was busy in his pleasant work of nest-making, his little body glowing with vermilion and all the hues of the rainbow, and I can describe from personal observation

☞ Invigorata the System.—Two-thirds of our diseases proceed from derangements of the stomach and the nerves. A want of vigor in the digestive organs causes an immense amount of disease, but, both by body and mind, ONE PREPARATION AND ONE ONLY, reaches the cause and the consequences of this discomfort. To give strength to the weakened stomach, to calm the agitated nerves and to restore that regularity of action in all the organs which constitutes perfect health, and to secure a long and painless life, these is no medicine now before the world which will so secure with HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS. It would be an insult to the reader to suppose that he has not heard of their amazing success in Dyspepsia, Liver Complaints, general debility, and all the disorders to which the stomach, the liver, the bowels and the nerves are subject. No marvellous is the effect of this great restorative that physicians of eminence do not hesitate to affix their names as witnesses to the truthfulness of persons who have been rescued from suffering and despair by the Bitters, when the remedies of the dispensary had all been tried without avail.

PURE AIR AND PERFECT
VENTILATION, LESTER'S IMPROVED FURNACE AND STOVE.
LETTERS PATENT have been obtained upon this Furnace as a VENTILATOR. It is unsurpassed as a Heater, and as a Ventilator is superior to any other device you ever saw.
VENTILATION
Is more like the old-fashioned Open Grate than any other plan, while as heated by the fire-place it serves, and the cold air as it passes comes settling upon the floor and is heated out of the room, and by the time it reaches the register it is warm enough for use.
Churches, Schools, Halls and Private Dwellings supplied at the shortest notice.
The Fire Brick from Work, Registers, Ventilators, and setting done to order.
The Furnace for sale in all parts of the country.

The Corn market to-day was active and firm. At the opening sales of No. 1 were made at 42½c, but after receipt of New York dispatches prices advanced to 43c, the market closing quiet. Wheat was also active, with a good shipping inquiry at $1.00@1.001 for No. 1 Red Winter; 94c for No. 2 do; 93c for No. 3 Spring; 90@90½c for No. 2 do; and 78@78c for Rejected. The offerings of Flour were larger, but the market was heavy and inactive. Oats quiet and prices rather unsettled. Rye in good demand for shipment. Nothing doing in Barley. Freights firmer. Highwines a shade lower.

TOLEDO MARKET—July 31—The wheat market to-day seems pretty firm at a slight advance in prices, but it would not be safe to calculate on any permanent improvement. Flour—Sales of 200 bbls. extra at $4.624. Wheat—Sales of red: 1,500 bu $1 00; 2,000 bu $1.000; 1,000 bu $1.00; 2,000 bu p. t.; 2,000 bu do; 1,000 bu $1.01; 5,000 bu p. t.; 1,000 bu $1.01. Sales of white: 1,500 bu $1.01; 5,000 bu p. t. Corn—Sales—9,000 bu at 45c; 12,000 bu 45c.

MILWAUKEE MARKET, July 31.—Flour—Sales a lot of 100 bbls Milwaukee mills spring extra, partly new, at $5.25 bbl. Rye flour is steady at $3.12@3.37, with a light demand. Wheat—Market firm and quiet; sales 250 bu No. 1 in store at 90c; 50 bu club del at 92c; 100 bu milling at 85c del; a small lot of winter do at $1.05. Corn—Quiet; sale of 150 bu shelled at 43c del. Barley—We note a sale of 100 bu poor new barley, at 47c del. Nothing doing in other grain.

CINCINNATI MARKET—July 31.—Flour—The market has not changed essentially. That made from old wheat is scarce, and is wanted at very full rates, say $4.75 to $5 for fair to good brands, but new wheat is dull and hard to sell at 4 40@4.50. The sales were: 200 brls Petersburg Mills, $. brs. 100 brls Miami Canal R. W., 4 50; 100 brls Miami Central R. W., 4 50; 100 brls Epicurean, dat, 4 50; 100 brls Milton Canal W., 4.50; 125 brls Southern Ohio new, 4.50; 50 brls Gilpin & Stephenson, do, 4.90. Whisky—The market continues rather dull and lower, and prices cannot be called lower. Sales of 1100 brls at 16¢@17c, the latter rate for wagon, and 56 brls after Change at 16¢. Provisions—There was nothing done in any article of importance to-day, and the market must be quoted as being very quiet. A lot of bacon sides was offered at 11½c without a sale being effected. Lard is steady at 11½c, with a moderate demand. Sales of sugar at 8½@9c. Coffee at 15¢@16c. Molasses at 44c. Wheat—The offerings to day were more liberal, and the market was dull, but not materially lower in prices. We quote prime white $1@1.03, and prime red at 90@95c. Sales 3,500 bu prime white, delivered at Middletown, Ind., at $1.00, sold by Dubois & August; 200 bu do good red at 85c; 100 do inferior white at 95c; 300 bu do Hill at 95c; 1,100 bu do prime red at 90c; 900 bushels do do at 91c; 850 bushels do at 88c, and 150 bushels do choice white at $1.06. Corn—The market is steady, and the demand fair at 43@44c in bulk. Sales 1,400 bu in bulk, at 40c; 2,000 do do at 41c. Oats—The supply is liberal, and the market dull and heavy at 30c for new, and 34@35c for old. Sales 1,200 bu new at 30@31c, delivered from landing, at 30c; 300 do old and new, from landing, at 35c. Rye—The demand is fair, and the market steady at 65@68c for prime new and old. Sales 100 bu new at 65c. Barley—The demand for new is limited, and the market dull at 75@75c for prime; old is nominal.

CLEVELAND MARKET, July 31.—Flour—There have been no inquiries for lots, and sales have been strictly confined to the small demand for which prices are gradually settling down. Good brands of Ohio and Indiana double extras from red wheat sell in a small way at $4.25, at which extra city brands at $4.50. Some of the best brands of State and Indiana white wheat double extras sell by the dry load at $5.75. Choice city brands of 300 bbls extra at $4.75@5. Choice city brands of 300 bbls dry ground XX white $5 25. Wheat—Most of the purchases this morning were to ship; a few cars only being taken to mill. Sales 2000 bu red free on board at $1.01; 1500 bu red free on board at $1.01; 2 cars free on board at $1.01; 1 car on track at $1.01; 2 cars free on track; 2 cars white at $1.10 from stores; 3,500 bu white to complete cargo, at $1.02 free on board, and 2 cars on track at $1.00. Corn—No purchasers. Asking prices are 40c. Oats—Quiet and unchanged at 30c. Mess pork—held at $18@18 25. Lard—Sales 700 lbs in bbls at 11½c, and 200 lbs. in kegs at 12c. Hams and shoulders—Sales 2200 lbs country hams and shoulders at 11c; 600 lbs Comstock hams at 12½c, and 500 "More house" at 13c.
